Pure air helps to make pure blood, which, in course of an-ture, builds up healthy bodies. Out-of-door pigs would not show so well at fairs, and would robably be passed over by the udges and people who have been taught to admire only the fat and helpless things that get the prizes. Such pigs are well adapted to fill lard kegs, where-as the standard of protection should be a pig which will make the most ham with the least waste of fat, the longest and deepest sides, with the most lean meat; it should have bone enough to allow it to stand up and help itself to food, and carry with it the evidence of health and natural development in all its parts. Pigs which run in a range or pasture have good appetites—the fresh air and ex-ercise give them this—hence they will eat a great variety of food and much coarser than when confined in pens. Nothing need go to waste on the farm for lack of a market. They will consume all the refused fruit, roots, pumpkins, and all kinds of vegetables, which will make them grow. By extend-ing the root patch, and plant-ing the fodder corn thinner, so that nubbins will form on it, and by putting a sweet variety, the number of pigs may be increased in proportion. A few bushels of corn at the end of the season will finish off the pig. The pig pasture will be pig. The pig pasture will be ready the next year for any crop, and ten times the advantage accrues to the farm than if the pigs are confined in close pens, for as pigs are usually managed on the the farm, but little manure is ever made from them -- Col. F. D. Curtis, in American Agriculturist.

Mannre Hade Under Cover.

Of course all the advantage of making manure in covered yards may be secured by box eeding, with less outlay for roofing, since more space must be allowed for a given number of animals turned loose together, than when confined in stalls; it is the protection from rain and sun, the abundant use of litter and its thorough incorporation with the excrements, and the exclusion of air by compact treading, which go to make the superior manure; all these features of the method work ngainst the loss of valuable plant food. Nor does box feedng and constant accumulation of manure under the feet of the animals necessarily imply offen-sive stalls. Mr. Lawrence, above quoted, said that everyhody noticed the general sweet-ness of his stalls; it is only essential that enough litter be us-ed to absorb all liquids, and this absorption is more effectual if the straw is cut up.

One method or the other, box be adopted by every farmer who lives where manure is worth saving, and who finds himself compelled to supplement his stable manure with commercial fertilizers. Stable manure must not be lost sight in this increasing interest in stable manure with the common gateway to fraud." As some kind of check upon the cash book, the editor feeding or covered yards, should for we cannot produce our crops and have enough for ourselves and others, without its aid; and there is nothing in all the list of commercial mixturs, which give so good an average rerurn for the money invested in it, as well-made stable manure—Prof. Caldwell, in American Agriculturist for October.

A Rather Odd but Interesting Game

From the Kingston Freeman.] An up-town young lady and gentleman play games of euchire at nights in the young lady's parlor under the agreement that when he wins he is to kiss her and when she wins she is to kiss him. The agreement seems to have been very satisfactory, and it has astonish ed the rest of the folks who are not in the secret why it is they do so love to play euchre. If one of the members of the fami-ly happens to be in the room when games are won or lost, why the fulfillment of the contract is put off until a kissing opportunity occurs, and it is said in some instances, when a large number of forfeits become due, it requires almost a con-tinual kiss and return for half an hour or more to finish up. This practice a person would suppose to be quite a wearing and exhaustive one, but the young people bear up under it wonderfully, and seem quite cheerful and happy. Had it not been for some jealous chaps the secret compact between the two probably would never flave been known to the world, and thus other couples deprived of the chance to test it themselves. The jealous youths, while looking at the window one night, saw the forms of the couple shadowed on the window-shades and as they could see them play cards, and when the last card was slapped down hear one or the other say: "O glory! It's my turn!" or "O, cream and peaches, I will try it this time !" and could see the shadowy motions of kissing, they surmised the whole thing and told it as a big joke, when they were only sighing that they couldn't have part in the contract.

Everybody wants it, but very few get it, because most people do not know how to select codice, or it is spoiled in the reasting or making. To obviate these difficulties has been our study. Thurber's package coffices are selected by an expert who understands the art of blending various flavors. They are roasted in the most perfect manner (it is impossible to roast well in small quantities), then put in pound packages (in the bean, not ground.) bearing our signature as a guarantee of gennineaes, and each package contains the Thurber recipe for making good Coffee. We pack two kinds, Thurber's "No. 34," atrong and puagent: Thurber's "No. 41." mild and rich. One or the other will suit every taste. They have the three great points, good quality, honest quantity, reasonable price. Ask your grocer for Thurber's coasted Coffee in pound packages, "No. 34" or "No. 41". Do not be put off with any other kind—your own palate will tell you what is best.

Where persons deaire it, we also furnish the "Ideal" Coffee-pot, the simplest, best and cheapest coffee-pot in existence. Grocers who sell our Coffee keep them. Ask for descriptive circular.

Wholesale Grocers and Coffee Rogaters, New York. P. S.—As the largest dealers in food roducts in the world, we consider it our products in the world, we consider it our interest to manufacture only pure and wholesome goods and pack them in a tidy and satisfactory manner. All goods bearing our name are quaranteed to be of superior quality, pure and wholesome, and dealers are authorized to refund the purchase price in any case where customers have eause for disastisfaction. It is therefore to the interest of both dealers and consumers to use Thurber's brands.
